RS485 is employed in lithium battery systems to establish reliable communication between the battery management system (BMS) and individual battery cells or modules. The BMS is responsible for monitoring and controlling the state of charge (SOC), state of health (SOH), cell balancing, and other critical parameters of each battery cell.

Full solid-state battery commercialization is anticipated around 2030, with semi-solid-state batteries leading the way in the short term, gradually transitioning to full solid-state technology. Since 2021, solid-state battery development has been integrated into the national strategies of major economies like the U.S., Japan, South Korea, and the European Union.
