Do kids electric cars run out of batteries?

The battery in a kids electric car will eventually run out. This might be due to over or under-charging or exposing the battery to natural elements like rain or sunlight. However, properly caring for your batteries can make them last much longer. Can I put a bigger battery in my child's ride on car?

Can a ride-on car battery be overcharged?

Over over or undercharging: Unless your kids use their ride-on car every day, there is no need to keep the battery on 100% power. Let the battery run down, then charge it up before using it again. Over or undercharging can significantly reduce the ride-on car battery life.
